The screenshot displays the user interface of the Directives portal. On the left, a vertical navigation menu contains several items: 'Directives' (highlighted with a blue circle), 'Current Directives', 'Draft Directives', 'Archives', 'Types of Directives', 'RevCom', 'Writers' Tools', 'DPC Corner', and 'Quick References'. The main content area features a yellow 'Info' banner with the text 'Welcome! You are now logged in.' Below this, the 'Directives' section is introduced by 'Jim McDonald' (last modified May 27, 2010 09:48 AM). The text explains that this section is a centralized library of directives in effect or pending approval, grouped by series and subject, and includes a collection of archived historical directives. It notes that all directives listed in the 'Current Directives' section are in effect regardless of their expiration date. Two sub-sections are listed: 'Current Directives' and 'Draft Directives'. The 'Current Directives' section provides a brief description: 'Approved directives. The writer and originating organization are identified for each directive including an email link to the writer and the Office of Information Resources (MA-90)'. The 'Draft Directives' section is also listed but its content is not fully visible.
